Since the need for private investigation was booming more and more former inspectors started working in the field of private investigation. Analysing the new circumstances Dr. Lőrinc Láposi retired general found necessary to establish an association for the detectives, the Association of the Hungarian Private Detectives was founded by him and 13 associates on 31st of October in 1991.

A Mission

Description

The goal of the association is to provide professional representation and protection for the detectives. In order to accomplish the above mentioned it keeps in touch with national and local authorities, co-operates with the professional chamber of detectives. EU regulations regarding private investigation allow to carry out operations and activities outside the home country. For our Association it is very important to keep international ties with partner organisations. Our Association is trying to establish and maintain professional ties with IKD and its member associations to provide good professional opportunities for the Hungarian detectives as well.

Authentic representation

The Association has always been trying to influence legislation to satisfy the interests supporting private investigation to the best possible extent concerning forming the respective regulations.

Our Association has organised a series of lectures with the title 'Academy on Private investigation and security protection' over the past years where our colleagues have been able to obtain the latest criminological tactics and technical applications. Our colleagues can take part in trainings on psychology held by outstanding experts.

Our Association operates as public company and it is donated by its members.
